

Rock Art Recording Agreement for Private Landowners

The undersigned landowner agrees to permit the undersigned rock art recording team leader and recording team access to the archaeological rock art site identified below for the purpose of recording the rock art. The landowner will not be liable for any personal injuries incurred by the recording team or damages to or loss of their personal equipment.

There will be no digging or surface collection of artifacts. No artifacts are to be removed from the property by the recording team under any circumstances. When necessary to facilitate recording, annual vegetation, dead trees and shrubs, and small branches of live trees may be pruned.

The recording team leader and/or individual members will retain copyright ownership of all photographs, drawings, forms, and other materials created during the work period. The recorded documentation may be published in a variety of forms at the discretion of the copyright holder, including but not limited to: printed manuals and web sites devoted to rock art education and research.

Copies of the recorded material will be provided to the landowner as follows. The landowner may make up to twenty additional copies per year for his own use or gifts to friends or relatives, but may not create copies for sale.
